

Personal Journal Entry 1:

Over the last couple weeks we were assigned our PM groups as well as the BAs that we will be working with. I looking forward to working with my fellow group 3 PMs Chris and Trang. Both seem to have really good heads on their respective shoulders and know what they would like to get out of this project. Last week we had a nice meet & greet session with our BAs to go over the basics of the class and to get to know each other better. Lucky for us, all the BAs are seem extremely capable and are excited to start the project and get their hands on Just In Mind Prototyper. If all goes as planned this should be a fun semester working with them all with a great prototype that hopefully TU press will be able to use as the outcome! More updates to come. Until next time Journal.
