

Personal Journal entry Week8:

Everything with the project is coming along smoothly. Our group continues to make strides with the JIM prototype and it is starting to really take form. I think when the prototype is finished its going to be something that TUpres can really get excited about. Their project scope has also really come a long way. Continuously getting it checked by Moustafellos has helped them out a ton, and I am sure their continuous meetings with him have not gone unnoticed by Moustafellos. They are really putting in the work.
