

Personal Journal entry Week 5:

With spring break we did not have our weekly meeting that we have grown accustomed to. Our BAs have been really putting in the hours and I think this break is well deserved. We haven't cut communications for the week or anything though, we still regularly discuss things with in the GroupMe application. Even with this well-deserved week off I don't see it having any negative effects on the final project.